

Scanner driver installation under Windows XP

The necessary steps of the installation for Windows XP are the same as for the other platforms. When you install the scanner however, you will be faced with a number of warnings issued by the new Xp operating system.

When you plug in the scanner, the system will inform you that it has found new hardware

Next the welcome screen of the "Found New hardware Wizard " will appear.

Make sure that you select "Install the software automatically". Then click Next.

Windows XP will come up with the following warning, advising you not to install the scanner. As the dialog correctly states, the driver has not passed (has not even been submitted) to the Windows XP Logo testing program. If you want to continue installing the scanner, click "Continue AnyWay".

Then , the installation will continue by copying files on your system. In some cases you may be prompted for the Windows XP CD by following dialog. Insert the CD and click Retry.

Now the installation will come up with the “Completing the Found New Hardware Wizard” dialog. Click Finish to end the installation.

If all went well, the system will inform you that the new hardware is installed and ready to use.
